Region

Paso Robles might be California's best kept secret. This rural and diverse region has many different mesoclimates, there's something for everyone!

Mountainous

Areas in Paso Robles that are closer to the Pacific Ocean are cooler, wetter, windier, and even may see marine fog. This is where you'll find wines with higher levels of acidity and freshness.

Mountainous Districts

- ADELAIDA
- EL POMAR
- PASO ROBLES WILLOW CREEK
- TEMPLETON GAP
- SANTA MARGARITA RANCH
- YORK MOUNTAIN

Did You Know?

The York Mountain AVA is a separate AVA that was established in 1983, just west of the Paso Robles AVA. Cooler and wetter, it was the site of the first winery in the region, established by Andrew York in the 1880s. York Mountain is experiencing a renaissance, look out for some new projects that take advantage of the strong maritime influence on this small and historic AVA.

Inland

The inland gets hotter and drier, but the difference between day and night temperatures is much greater. This means you'll find full-bodied wines with a freshness about them due to the temperature swing.

Inland Districts

- SAN MIGUEL
- PASO ROBLES ESTRELLA
- PASO ROBLES GENESEO
- PASO ROBLES HIGHLANDS
- CRESTON
- SAN JUAN CREEK

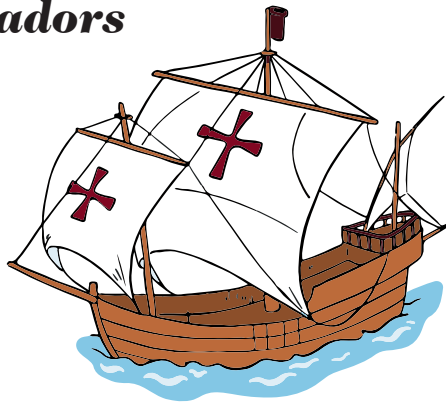

History

Originally known for its healing hot springs, Paso Robles is now best known for its world class wines. From the original Native American stewards of the land to the young vibrant community today, let's discover the 200 years of winemaking history in Paso Robles.

1790s

Catholic Missionaries & Spanish Conquistadors

Franciscan Missionaries planted Vitis vinifera vines in California, primarily the Mission variety. This was to make sacramental wine. Francisco Cortez, a famous conquistador, also encouraged settlers from Mexico to cultivate the vine here. The town still displays old fermentation vats from this era.

1882

Andrew York & Zinfandel

The earliest known plantings of vines for commercial use were of Zinfandel, in what is today known as York Mountain. Andrew York and his Ascension winery established these. As the beginning of commercial wineries started to take hold, the area was already known as "Almond City," and agriculture and tourism were important.

1920s

Ignacy Paderewski

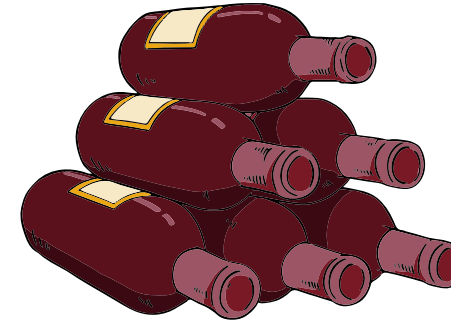

Ignacy Paderewski, a famous Polish concert pianist, visiting Paso Robles for its hot springs, established more Zinfandel and Petite Sirah vineyards. After Prohibition, these wines went on to win international awards, solidifying Paso Robles' reputation on the world stage.

Mid-1990s to 2000s

Rhône Rangers

Paso Robles went from less than 100 acres of Rhône varieties planted in 1996 to over 2,200 acres in 2006. The interest and appreciation for Rhône blends, led by the success of Gary Eberle, Robert Haas (aka the Rhône Rangers), helped increase interest in these varieties.

Today

Sustainability & Community

As more and more people turn to dry farming, organic production, and sustainable agriculture, Paso Robles is on the cutting edge of experimentation. Many vineyards here are certified CCOF Organic, Demeter Biodynamic, Regenerative Organic, SIP Certified, and CA Sustainable.

Terroir

Paso Robles, only 35 miles (56 km) long and 43 miles (69 km) wide, contains most of the world's climates that are suitable for grapes. It's possible to grow the cool climate loving Sauvignon Blanc next to the sun-seeking Zinfandel in the same region. Let's find out why!

Wind & Fog

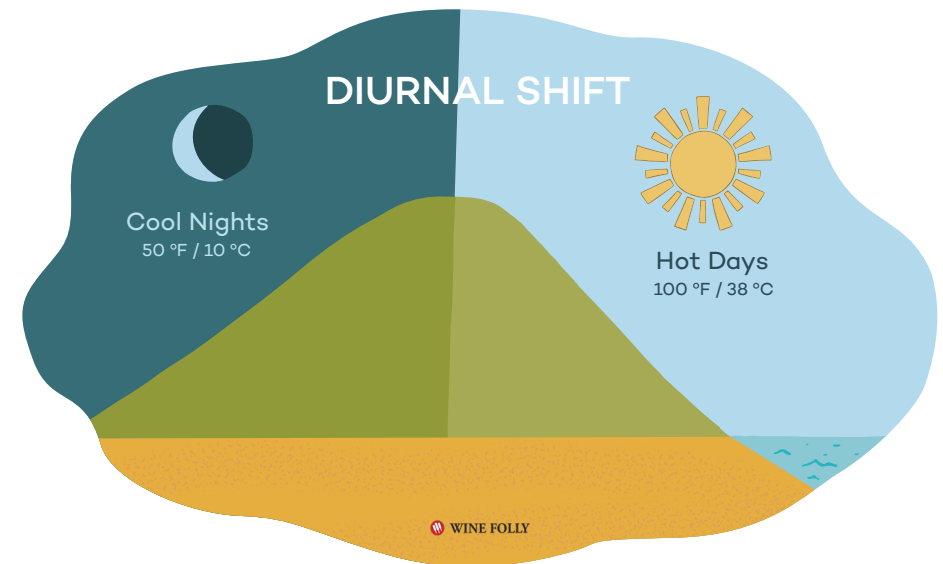

Paso Robles, though only 20 miles (30 km) from the cold Pacific Ocean, is separated from it by the Santa Lucia mountains. With an elevation of over 2,000 ft (610 m), these mountains prevent most of the cool Pacific breezes and fog from reaching Paso Robles. Gaps in the mountains bring wind and fog.

Diurnal Range

Diurnal range is the temperature difference between night and day, and Paso Robles has some pretty crazy numbers - you can see a 50°F (30°C) change between night and day here!

This means the vines are able to refresh themselves, the grapes hold on to their acidity, and the aromas are retained in the berries. The result is that you get ripe fruit flavors and tannins, but lots of refreshing acidity and aroma too.

Unique Soils

Paso Robles has unique soil characteristics that are not easily found in other parts of North America because Paso Robles sits on a completely different tectonic plate than the rest of the continent. This leads to a freshness in the wines.

The Pacific tectonic plate, where we find Paso, meets the North American plate at the San Andreas Fault. The pushing and sliding of these plates over millennia has resulted in unique soils: a whole lot of ancient seabed, full of fossilized sea creatures, and their skeletons full of calcium carbonate.

Travel

Planning a wine vacation in Paso Robles? Check out this Paso Robles wine guide exploring the wineries and region to get the most out of your trip.

Location

The Paso Robles wine country is located about 200 miles (320 km) from San Francisco and Los Angeles.

For the connoisseur, it's surprising to see this much wine quality in a 15 mile (24 km) radius. Paso Robles is an authentic and vibrant winegrowing area in the heart of California's Central Coast with 11 distinct American Viticultural Areas.

There are over 200 wineries to choose from in the area. As you take a closer look at the region, the 11 nested AVAs have unique and diverse topographic, climatic, and soil characteristics that affect the wines.

Which Areas to Visit

Western Paso

Forested hills cover western Paso Robles, including the sub-regions of Adelaida, Templeton Gap, and Willow Creek. This area offers some of the most picturesque Paso Robles vineyard scenery.

Downtown

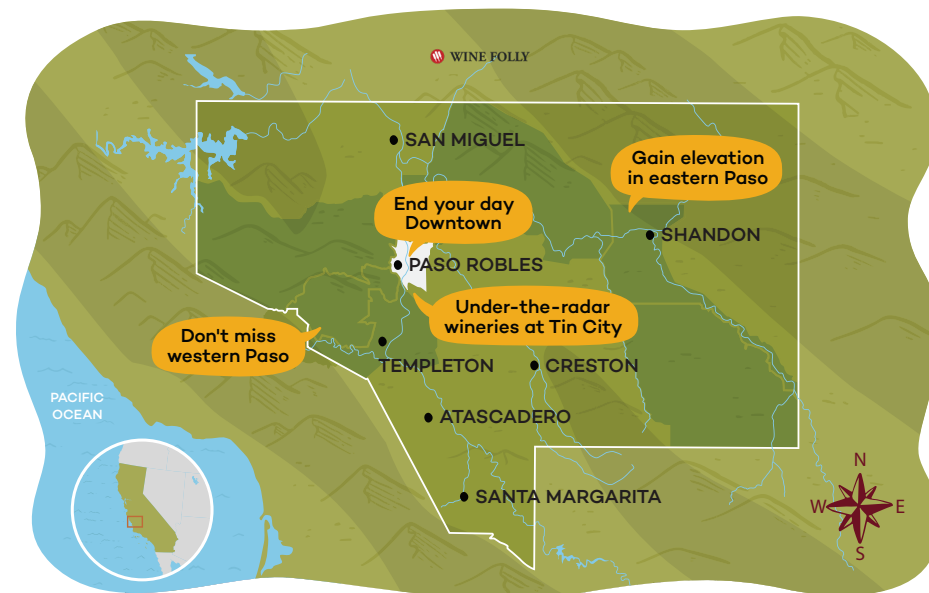

The Downtown tasting rooms open later and close later than those outside of the city. Drop in or schedule a private appointment when you're looking for one of the tasting spots who stay open late.

Tin City, Ramada Row, and Tin City Annex

Many up-and-coming wineries, cideries, and breweries have set up shop in a converted industrial area in South Paso. Since everything is close by, it's easy to explore.

Eastern Paso

What gives eastern Paso wines freshness is growing at elevation. Vineyards in some of the appellations start at 1,000 feet (300 m) above sea level.

Events

Paso Robles Wine Country celebrates with events all year long, from major weekend festivals like BlendFest on the Coast, Spring Release, Wine Country Virtual Auction, Paso Wine Fest, and Harvest Wine Month to winery-hosted events every weekend.

BlendFest on the Coast

The innovative winemaking spirit of Paso Robles is perhaps best exemplified by our mastery of wine blends, ranging from traditional GSMs and Bordeaux-style cuvées to more unconventional creations. So naturally, we host California's only festival dedicated to blends, featuring winemaker dinners, coastal excursions, blending seminars, and a grand tasting with ocean views. This event happens late in the month of February.

Spring Release Month

The entire month of March, discover a slice of Paso Robles Wine Country's charisma and get out to some of the over 100 individual events like winemaker dinners, live music, specialty tours, and more. Come take in Paso Robles as the weather warms inviting you to absorb the fresh sights and scents of wine country. Delicious new wines and the beginning of a new vintage budding in the vineyard.

Wine Country Virtual Auction

This virtual auction features up to 25 lots of specially curated items from Paso Robles Wine Country. All packages are one-of-a-kind that are not available for retail purchase, which will include special verticals from winery libraries, dinners with multiple brands, overnight stays in exclusive accommodations, and exceptional tours. Visit pasowine.com ahead of the auction to view the lots as they become listed and register to bid.

Paso Wine Fest

First held in 1983, Paso Wine Fest weekend features over 100 individual events at the area wineries. The celebration culminates at the Saturday Grand Tasting bringing 100+ of the region's iconic brands together for an outdoor tasting which includes live entertainment, local distilleries, brand experiences, artisan vendors, and plenty of wine county cuisine.

Harvest Wine Month

The entire month of October is Harvest Wine Month. Wineries host individual events throughout the month with every event listed on pasowine.com. Look for specialty tours, winemaker dinners, grape stomps, music events, and more. October traditionally has exceptional weather, when days are warm and nights are cool, it's a perfect time to take in the sights and sounds of Harvest.

Wineries

With a laid back ethos, beautiful views, and a range of tasting experiences, Paso Robles wineries have something for everyone. Let's explore them together.

So Much Diversity

With over 200 wineries and tasting rooms, Paso Robles has a lot to offer. On top of the wide range and size of wineries, from very boutique to quite large, Paso Robles has a great diversity in landscape.

Aaron began in 2002, inspired by a desire to produce powerful, age-worthy wines from the rugged hillsides of westside Paso Robles. Seeking to create wines that veered from the norm, we chose to focus our efforts around a variety we adored, yet had no international benchmark — Petite Sirah.
